

Secondary Education at Carrs Farm

Carrs Farm offers a number of opportunities for fieldwork for the secondary age range. The farm could be used as a farming case study, as a focus for looking at the issues around countryside stewardship, for ecological studies on the hay meadow and woodland habitats or as a base for further fieldwork in Weardale and the North Pennines.

This education pack provides the option for two fieldwork days at Carrs Farm. Both days start with a farm walk that produces a case study of the farm. Resources are then available to either carry out an ecological study on the nationally important hay meadows on the farm or to look at the factors that have affected farming at Carrs Farm.
